The House of Delegates, by a vote of 56 to 25, passed the Jordan Bill to fares whose crookedness and narrow break the Baylor survey and to lease barren and depleted grounds thereis, on Wednesday, despite the many defects which were pointed out in the bill by the Tidewater delegates and the vigorous efforts which were made by them to amend it. The advocates of the iniquitous measure, in their haste to transfer the "natural beds, rocks and shoals of the State" into the hands architectural art. The mayor and the of a syndicate, by a farce which will be played later by calling them "exhausted" and "depleted" beds, were not open to conviction or disposed to listen to reason, as indicated by the following report of the closing debate on the question by the Times-Dispatch: Mr. Gravely, of Henry, was the first speaker on the oyster measure. He spoke briefly against the passage of the measure, and declared that he did not think it was a proper one to put on the statute books in its present shape. Mr. Rew followed Mr. Gravely, and his effort was an exceptionally strong one. He appealed to the House in eloquent terms not to pass a bill which would inflict a great injustice upon his people, and which was both unfair and unconstitutional. Mr. Rew declared unconstitutional. Mr. Rew declared that it was not proper to send a partisan commission to deal with the very vitals of his people, and he argued at some length that the bill was not such a one as would, in his judgment, bring in any additional revenue to the public treasury. Mr. Rew's percentage was in any additional results of treasury. Mr Rew's peroration was vigorous and eloquent, and he was loudly cheered when he had resumed his seat.

Mr. Cardwell spoke for the bill, and before he had proceeded far he was plied with questions from many sources, Messrs. Rew and Withers asking. the major part of them.

It looked at one time as if there might be a compromise, which would be agreeable to both sides. Mr. Rew said that if the words "exhausted" and "depleted" should be stricken out, and the commission chosen from without the Legislature he would support the bill, and he was followed by Messrs. Lambeth, Gunn, Withers, and J. M. Lewis on the same line. It looked as if the whole Tidewater delegation were about to "tumble," and the t. Mr. Jordan would accept, but Mr. Cardwell, who still held the floor "sat still in the boat," and, when it was all over, declared that on his part he would decline to enter into any agreement which would "load" the bill so that it would not pass the Senate.

Mr. Hundley, of Matthews, opened his speech in opposition to the bill with a declination fo serve as a member of the committee to make the resurvey. He referred to the fact that the patron himself had not been sure of his ground and had se t the bill to Courts of Justice to see if it were constitutional. He appealed to the Legislature not to pass this bill, which when he resumed his seat, and Mr. Jordan, the patron, arose to close the debate for the measure. The bill was read by the clerk when Mr. Jordan had concluded his remarks, and upon roll-call it was passed.

The task of clearing the piles of brick, mortar and rubbish from the ready consummated.

The task of clearing the piles of brick, mortar and rubbish from the streets in the fire scourged district was purpled forward with marvelous energy. Building Inspector Preston with a vast multitude of workmen has been on the desolated streets all day clearing away the debris, and great progress has been made.

Baltimore street has already been cleared from Liberty street to Jones' Falls. The debris is being thrown on the sides, and the entire middle of the street is clear. A large number of the water front, and the clearing up have 't also progressing rapidly, with conditional. He appealed to the Legislature not to pass this bill, which when he resumed his seat, and Mr. Jordan, the patron, arose to close the debate for the measure. The bill was read by the clerk when Mr. Jordan had conclu said that if the words "exhausted" and "depleted" should be stricken out, and

House, but it is predicted also, that it will pass the Senate. We cannot be lieve it. We believe that body too conservative and wise to endorse a measure, which in the lauguage of the Virginian-Pilot in whatever shape it has been presented, "is always lacking the guarantee that productive rocks will not be seized or the guarantee that the State will get an adequate rental for the bottoms leased."

Marcus Alonzo Hanna is dead. He passed away at the Arlington in Washington on Monday in the sixtyseventh year of his age, lamented generally by his own party and with the kindly feelings of those who had abused him most in his life time. In many respects he deserved the praise which has been so lavishly bestowed upon him by men of every political affiliation since his death. He is credited with being sincere in his attach ment to his friends, just and liberal to those in his employ, and tolerant to those who differed with him, and doubtless correctly, but he does not take a place with those who have served his country with distinction. He was a successful politician, because of the great amount of money at his command, but he was not a great orator or statesman and certainly not entitled to the credit of being, as is claimed for him, "the best loved of all Americans"

THE LOSS PLACED AT $85,000,000

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 13.-That Bal timore is to rise from its ashes more substantial, more modern and far more symmetrical, needs no further proof than was made manifest by renewed expressions on the part of Mayor Mo-Lane and the committee of public safety by leading citizens that no building permits shall be issued until a plan of realigning certain thoroughness have long constituted a blemish as well as a serious embarrassment to municipal growth.

There is a grim determination visible on all sides that the public's compensation for the flery ordeal through which it has passed shall be the rising of a metropolis which shall be distinguished among American cities for both its material substance and its committee of safety are resolved that shells of buildings shall not be run up between fireproof structures, as in the past, and thus serve as a standing invitation to the flames. On this point the controlling forces here are appar ently a unit, thus affording a guarantee that the future Baltimore is to be both modern and a model city.

A composite estimate of the total loss from the fire by 25 expert representatives of leading insurance companies outside of Baltimore, places the figures at $85,000,000. Some of them think that the total loss will be reduced to $70,000,000, as much salvage is being dug out of the ruins which was thought to have been destroyed. The loss to the insurance companies

Very naturally, the urgent demands for location by firms made homeless by the fire has created much activity among real estate men, and there has been a disposition on the part of some owners to unduly advance prices. Several good property deals have been al

> The United Railway also had a large number of men at work endeavoring to straighten out the trolley wires. This company is also assisting to remove money and securties from the different trust companies' vaults. Three of their wagons were busy carrying off the valuables from the Continental Trust company's building. Ropes were strung from the wagons up to the various floors and then run through the windows, and valuables were then "trollied" down in sacks.

The work of emptying the safe deposit vaults in the ruined buildings has progressed rapidly. This is being done with extraordinary precautions. An escort of cavalry accompanies the wagons in which the treasures are hauled. Sharpshooters in plain clothes ride on the wagons, and detectives follow closely on the sidewalks.

HIGH PRICES FOR COAL Usual April Discount of 50 Cents May

Not Be Allowed. Philadelphia, Feb. 17.-While a definite decision has not been reached, it is probable that the usual April dis count of 50 cents a ton on anthracite coal may not be allowed this year. It is proposed by maintaining prices to more nearly equalize the sale of anthracite for the year. The discount has heretofore included prepared sizes, and extended, with a graded scale of 10 cents a month advance, be ginning May 1 to September 1.

The market for anthracite is normally 55,000,000 tons, and it is impossible, experts say, to increase the output materially without reducing prices, der the wage scale imposed by the strike commission.

When You Have a Cold.

Ex-President Cleveland has again been heard from. In a late article in the Saturday Evening Post he urges "his rank and file associates of the Democrat'c party" to unite and take advantage of the opportunities of next November and says "he believes there is an opportunity for democratic success in the coming presidential election." The prospect of success, in his opinion of course, will be greatly improved with him as the nominee of the party.

When You Have a Cold.

The first action when you have a cold should be to relieve the lungs. This is best accomplished by the free use of Chamberlains Cough Remedy. This Remedy liquefies the tough mucus and causes its expulsion from the air cells of the lungs, produces a free expectoration, and opens the secretions. A complete cure soon follows. This Remedy will cure a severe cold in less time than any other treatment and it leaves the system in a natural and healthy condition. It counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia.
